Hi Sarah

Yes, I can confirm that we have undertaken an extensive search of our systems in response to the letter, and to the best of our knowledge at this time, no other external security consultants have been used to provide investigative or surveillance services.

Hi Karen

Thank you for your prompt email response to the letter from Inquiry Head, Doug Martin.

We were aware of CERA's potential use of Cyclops Monitoring so thank you for that confirmation.

For completeness, are you also able to provide assurance that to the best of your knowledge and through reasonable search method, no other external security consultants were used to provide investigative or surveillance services in the manner described in the letter.

Feel free to give me a call if you would like to discuss this further.

Cheers

Sarah

Subject: Response to the State Services Commission Inquiry into the use of External Security Consultants

Dear Sarah and Geoff

As requested in the attached letter, DPMC has undertaken a search of its information systems and financial records, including accounts payable and our general ledger for the period since 2008.

Our review has not identified any instances of DPMC undertaking transactions with any of the listed companies.

CERA was disestablished on 18 April 2016, with its financial and records information and some functions transitioning to DPMC. We have also therefore searched CERA records.

Our review has identified that CERA had some transactions with Cyclops Monitoring, however this was for security camera monitoring and therefore is excluded from your inquiry scope as a routine engagement of monitoring services.

I hope this information is useful for you.

Ngā mihi | Kind regards
Karen

Subject: State Services Commission Inquiry into the use of External Security Consultants

[IN-CONFIDENCE]

Dear Chief Executives

As you will be aware, State Services Commissioner Peter Hughes launched an inquiry in March 2018 relating to use of private security firms by Southern Response and the Ministry of Business, Innovation and Employment. The Commissioner is concerned about what has surfaced in the inquiry to date and new information now available relating to other government agencies. He has therefore decided to broaden and deepen the inquiry.

On behalf of the inquirers, Doug Martin of Martin Jenkins and Simon Mount QC, please find attached a letter requesting information from your agency.

Kind regards

Andrew Royle
