

Royal Commission Advisory Group

Information Sheet

Background

The Government publicly released the Report of the Royal Commission of Inquiry into the terrorist attack on Christchurch masjidain on 8 December 2020. The Royal Commission's report made 44 recommendations to Government. The Government has accepted all findings of the report and has agreed in-principle to all 44 recommendations. The Government has also adopted a set of principles to guide its response, which sets out a vision for a diverse, inclusive, and safe New Zealand.

Recommendation 44 of the report is that Government establish an Implementation Oversight Advisory Group (the Group) that:

- a) includes representatives of communities, civil society, local government, the private sector, affected whānau, survivors and witnesses and the Royal Commission's Muslim Community Reference Group;
- b) provides advice to the responsible ministers on the design of the government's implementation plan and its roll-out; and
- c) publishes its advice to enhance transparency.

Ministers conducted a series of hui in January and February 2021 to seek community views on the establishment of the Group. Communities were supportive of the Group and want it to be established as early as possible to be involved in shaping the Government's response. The Government is working to set up this group early in the response process.

Scope of the Group

The Group will be a Ministerial Advisory Group. This means that the Group will provide independent advice to Minister Andrew Little as the Lead Coordination Minister for the Government's Response to the Royal Commission's Report into the Terrorist Attack on Christchurch Mosques. The Group's work will include advice on work programme priorities. A full implementation work programme will not be agreed until Ministers can review advice from agencies and from this Group.

A Terms of Reference will be prepared. The Lead Coordination Minister is responsible for final approval of the Terms of Reference.

Government remains accountable for its response to the Royal Commission's report.

The Group's advice to the Lead Coordination Minister will be published online to enhance transparency, as recommended by the Royal Commission.

Ongoing community engagement to continue

The Group is one way communities can influence the Government's response to the Royal Commission. Ongoing broader community engagement will continue as part of the Government's overall response to the Royal Commission's report.
